

Shared Rubric — DREsS_New Multi-Rater Subset

Used only for the 15-essay shared batch that all 5 professors grade in common (for the descriptive inter-rater agreement statistic). Professors' own subject essays (125 total, 25 each) still use each professor's own rubric — unchanged.

Source: adapted from DREsS's own 3-criterion rubric (Yoo et al., “DREsS: Dataset for Rubric-based Essay Scoring on EFL Writing”, ACL 2025, Table 2). DREsS's paper only publishes a holistic top-level description per criterion (no per-level anchors) — the level 1-4 descriptions below are a GrAId-team extrapolation, not an official DREsS document. Not yet validated with the professors. Recommend a short norming pass (all 5 professors score the same 1-2 sample essays together and discuss) before grading the real 15, matching the norming approach DREsS's own annotators used.

Scale: 1.0–5.0 per criterion, 0.5 increments allowed between levels. Total = Content + Organization + Language (max 15).

Content — relevance & development of the argument

Score	Description
5	Well-developed, clearly relevant argument; strong, specific reasons and examples throughout
4	Mostly developed and relevant; reasons/examples present but under-elaborated in places
3	Argument present but development is inconsistent; some reasons/examples generic or thin
2	Argument unclear or weakly related to the prompt; few or unconvincing supporting reasons/examples
1	Little to no relevant argument; supporting reasons/examples missing or off-topic

Organization — structure & coherence

Score	Description
5	Very effective structure, easy to follow, strong coherence devices, one main idea per paragraph
4	Generally well-structured and easy to follow; minor coherence or paragraph-focus lapses
3	Structure discernible but uneven; some ideas hard to follow or paragraphs mix multiple ideas
2	Weak structure; confusing sequencing of ideas; coherence devices rare or misused
1	Little discernible structure; ideas appear disconnected or randomly ordered

Language — vocabulary, grammar, spelling, punctuation

Score	Description
-------	-------------

5	Sophisticated, varied vocabulary and collocations; grammar/spelling/punctuation correct throughout
4	Good vocabulary range; occasional minor errors that don't impede understanding
3	Adequate vocabulary; noticeable errors, occasionally distracting
2	Limited vocabulary; frequent errors that sometimes obscure meaning
1	Very limited vocabulary; pervasive errors that significantly impede understanding
